PRICE TWO CENTS

LIQUOR DEALERS PAY CITY $8,000

Getting Ready for Business Again
Proves an Expensive Proposition
For Saloonists.

SALOONS ARE OPEN AGAIN.

County Commissioners Granted Renewals Shortly After They Met This Morning.

The county commissioners granted this morning the renewal of liquor licenses to the fifteen saloons and five brewery agencies located in this city. But before they could begin business it was necessary that they pay a total of almost $12,000 for licenses and the right to sell liquor. The saloonists went to Brownstown early this morning in order that they might secure their licenses as soon as the commissioners' court convened and that their places of business could be opened as early as possible. The matter of granting the renewals was taken up by the commissioners shortly after the meeting began and there was no delay in granting the licenses. No new rights were granted and the men who received renewals were Peter Kessler, Henry J. Kirsch, U. G. Miller, Samuel Rittenhouse, Alex Lee, Henry Nichter, C. F. Reed, Chas. Pauley, George Williams, James Phillips, George Steinkamp, Jr., Reath Julian, Fosgate Hotel Co., Henry Lange, Jacob Becker. The licenses for the wholesaling of intoxicating liquors were also issued to the Terre Haute Brewing Co., Indianapolis Brewing Co., Hudepohl Brewing Co., Jung Brewing Co. and Cook Brewing Co.

Before the saloonists could begin business, however, it was necessary for them to pay for their county and city licenses and also the government fee, which is required of each retail liquor dealer. The fifteen saloonists paid into the county treasury the sum of $200 each, or a total sum of $3,000. They then paid to C. W. Burkhardt, city treasurer, the sum of $500 each, amounting to $7,500 for the entire number. Besides this each retail liquor dealer had to pay to the government $25. This was paid to the revenue collector at Indianapolis. The five wholesale liquor dealers paid into the city treasury a total sum of $500, no county license being required from them. As soon as the licenses were granted by the county commissioners, the applicants paid the county and city fees and there was little delay lost in opening the saloons this morning.

The $8,000 which was received by the city treasurer today was placed in the general fund of the city and will be used for defraying the general expenses of the city. The few days that the saloons were closed meant a considerable loss to the proprietors and they were all glad that business could be resumed again. The closing of the saloons because of the expiration of the licenses is rather an unusual occurrence and will not occur again, for hereafter the commissioners' court will convene before the licenses expire. That all the licenses expired at the same time is due to the fact that the applications were granted at the meeting of the May term of the commissioners' court in 1911.

which session convened on May 1st. This year the commissioners' court did not convene until the 6th which made it impossible for the renewals for 1912 to be granted before the expiration of the licenses given in 1911. The situation in Seymour was also experienced by saloon men in several other cities where the licenses were granted at the May session of the commissioners' court last year.

During the time that the saloons have been closed, several of them have undergone repairs and have been improved but all of the saloons were ready for business early this morning.

The officers were diligent in watching for law violations of the liquor law and report that all of the saloons were closed in fact as well as in name since the licenses expired. It is understood that the saloon men made a special effort themselves to keep any of the dealers from violating the law during that time and that it was impossible to purchase liquor from any of the fifteen saloons during the past few days.

Mrs. Lavinia Brown Dead.

Mrs. Lavinia Patrick Brown, who passed away Saturday evening, May 4, 1912, was born on a farm in Jennings county July 14, 1838. She was the daughter of John and Matilda Holman Patrick; one of their sixteen children. She was married in her father's house on April 17, 1859 to Franklin E. Brown, son of Laban and Damaris Barney Brown. Those who knew Laban and wife remember them as faithful members of the Baptist church. He was a deacon for years and any one who ever heard "Grandma Brown's" earnest exhortations in the monthly covenant and business meetings Saturday afternoons will never forget them. As a natural result Franklin became a Baptist and was ready to assume any responsibility for his Master, such as deacon, clerk, etc. Lavinia Patrick became a Christian early in life, and entered the M. E. church. After her marriage she joined the Baptist church with her husband, and lived a consistent life being interested in all lines of church work and ready to support them with service and means. She became a member of Baptist Sunday School Home Department in January 1906 and the visitor will sadly miss her cheery greetings. She was a woman of positive convictions and was free to express them. Her greatest virtues were manifested in her home where she was a devoted wife and mother, yet her acts of kindness done in her quiet way reached a large circle of relatives and friends.

She was the mother of six children four of whom survive her: Dr. E. W. Brown, of Grand Rapids, Michigan; Mrs. J. M. Shields, Mrs. Charles Hagan and Mrs. Morton Crabb, of Seymour. There are six living grandchildren. These she cherished as her own. After her children had left her home, she resided with her youngest daughter, Mrs. M. Crabb. Of her father's family four remain, John Patrick and Dr. Charles Patrick, of Seymour, Mrs. Jane Gossett, of Richmond and Mrs. E. M. Hart of Lafayette.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Morton Crabb, corner Sixth and Poplar streets, conducted by her pastor, Rev. F. M. Huckleberry. Burial at Riverview.

The boys' banquet Saturday evening was the climax of the work with the boys by Mr. A. W. Conner. Saturday morning the boys who had been taking the Princeley Knight Studies during the week were taken through the dungeon, which had been arranged at the First Baptist church. 226 boys took the dungeon work and a number of men and women who were interested, accompanied them. At five o'clock the boys gathered at the Public Library where their picture was taken with Mr. Conner and his helpers in the group. Then lining up in a double column, a block long, the boys marched to the First M. E. church, where the banquet had been prepared by the ladies of the different churches of Seymour. About 275 boys were served and after they were through a number of others were served, so that about 350 people attended the banquet.

At the close of the luncheon, Mr. Conner called on a number of citizens for one minute addresses. Under his leadership the boys sang and cheered with a will. Mr. Conner paid a high compliment to the boys of our city, when he said that in all his experience in this work he had never met a manlier set of boys nor one that was better behaved; in all the meetings the boys had been gentlemanly in their conduct and he had never had occasion to send his helpers through a crowd to reprove any boy as he has frequently had to do in other places; the boys have shown themselves equal to learning the lesson he has been teaching and anxious to do their very best.

Sunday afternoon a meeting for men was held at the First Baptist Church, in which Mr. Conner spoke on "The Heart Bindings of a Boy." He said the boy should be tied to his home city, to his home, the school, the church and the state, and above all to his own father. He should be taught to stand squarely against everything that is wrong and for the things that are right. At the close of the meeting Rev. Huckleberry took charge and in a few minutes the men had contributed $97.22 toward the expenses of the series of meetings.

Sunday evening Mr. Conner made his closing address to a union meeting of men and women from all the churches and the citizens of Seymour. His address was on the subject, "If there were no church, what then," bringing out the important place which the church holds as the only organization for upholding the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth, who has been the great example to all the world. He emphasized also the important place which the home has in the rearing of boys, that after all, the responsibility must go back to the home and that no father has a right

BODY OF KOGER FOUND

Was Drowned in White River in Lawrence County April 25.

The body of Grandberry Koger, who was drowned in White River in Lawrence county on April 25, was found Saturday at Indian Ford a short distance above the mouth of Guthrie Creek.

Koger, in company with Otto Smith, were in a boat running a trot line at the time of the accident, which took place just below the Mitchell club house near Riverville, when the boat was upset, and the occupants were both thrown into the water. Smith succeeded in saving himself, but was unable to lend assistance to his unfortunate companion who could not swim.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Remains of Late Capt. Balsley Laid to Rest This Afternoon.

The funeral services of the late Captain Joseph Balsley, formerly of this city, were held at Indianapolis this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family home in Indianapolis. The funeral was in charge of the George H. Thomas Post of G. A. R. and the I. O. O. F. lodge of which he was a member. The services were conducted by the Rev. Lewis King, of Columbus, who was a member of Captain Balsley's regiment, J. R. Balsley, of Connellsburg, Pa., a brother, and the only survivor of a family of seven.

Both the Taft and Roosevelt forces are watching with much eagerness the result of the Maryland primary today.

Owing to a peculiarity of the Maryland law there was a possibility that the complexion of the delegation to the Democratic convention would not be determined until the state convention.

Under the new law the candidate that wins a majority of the 129 delegates chosen today for the state convention will get all the national delegates also.

As there are only two candidates for the Republican presidential preference the division of the state delegates chosen today must result in a majority for one or the other.

If one of the three Democratic candidates receives a majority of the state delegates may be fought out at the state convention.

The returns from the Maryland primaries will likely not be complete before an early hour tomorrow.

ELECT TRUANT OFFICER

Harry Henderson Selected by Township Trustees for That Place.

The township trustees met at Brownstown this morning to elect a truant officer for this county. Harry Henderson and Frank Wheeler were candidates for the place, but when the trustees assembled Wheeler asked that Henderson be given the position.

Wheeler has been truant officer for some time and said that he had "enough of the job," and was willing that the trustees give their votes to Henderson.

The work of Mr. Wheeler, as truant officer, has been very satisfactory and the trustees were pleased with the manner in which he looked after the duties of the place.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

LIVING 150 YEARS.

"There is no good reason," says a recent writer, "why a man should not live to be 150 years old."

Beg pardon! There are many reasons.

Much is being said nowadays about longevity and the art of living, and many exaggerated statements are made. Of that sort is the statement quoted.

There are reasons why one, even though he should be able to keep soul and body together for 150 years, should not desire to do so. The reasons are inside the man—in the web and woe of his spirit.

Seldom does the man who reaches the age of ninety years have any great desire to live longer. He would be appalled at a future stretching out sixty years beyond.

Why?

He is built that way. In spite of the primal desire to live, he would grow tired of mortal life. Having suffered "the stings and arrows of outrageous fortune," he is weary—in the very knot and center of his being—wears as a little child at eventide.

The aged man must necessarily be a lonely man. Outliving his generation, he is out of touch with the world.

His dear ones have gone before—playmates of his youth, friends of early manhood and middle life—all gone.

In the very nature of things he cannot make new friends like the old ones. Youth must consort with youth.

Lacking the stimulus of normal associations and friendships, his spirit droops within him. It must be so.

Moreover, the aged man must necessarily have lost the fine flush of enthusiasm and the fine edge of endeavor which go with youth and early manhood. His spirit is dulled.

The aged man is disillusioned. Once he could build his beautiful castles in Spain. They have toppled at his feet. Once the mirages of life allured him on. He has seen them rise, dissolve into nothingness.

Tired, lonely, disillusioned—that is why men die when they die of "old age." Like certain trees they begin their decay at the top.

It is well that mortals should live as long as they can live—usefully and happily. But—

Better, infinitely better, than a mere stretch of years is the life that worthily spends its Scriptural span and then, when the shadows lengthen, lies down to pleasant dreams.

WHY CHILDREN ARE PUNY

Need More Food—Richer Blood, Better Appetite.

Anxious parents often wonder why their children are so thin, pale and nervous and have so little appetite.

Growing children need "lots" of food. They use so much energy in play, and their growing bodies require so much more, that unless they eat heartily they are bound to suffer.

A Bloomfield, N. J., mother, Mrs. E. W. Cooper, says: "My little girl had a bad cold and was run down in health for six weeks. Then I gave her Vinol and it was a wonderful help, breaking up her cold quickly and building up strength besides. I have also found Vinol an excellent tonic for keeping up children's strength during whooping cough."

Our delicious tonic, Vinol, is a wonderful appetizer and you can see children improve day by day under its use. It enriches the blood and builds up the body, making pale, delicate children and rosy.

We guarantee Vinol to do this, if it does not, you get your money back.

Red Cross Conference.

Washington, May 4.—Miss Mabel Boardman, the head of the American Red Cross society, will preside at the International conference which will be held in Washington next week and the week following. About 50 American and foreign delegates, representing twenty-three countries, will be present.

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

Delay has been encountered in establishing the school of journalism provided for in the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer, because of the inability of the executors and the Columbia university authorities to agree upon proper methods of instruction, says the Cincinnati Times-Star. The former favor severely practical training, while the latter would lay greater stress upon the teaching of underlying theories. It is known that Mr. Pulitzer wished to have theory and practice combined, but unfortunately he said nothing as to the proportion of each in the combination. He left that problem to be worked out by others. While it will have to be admitted that there would have been little real progress in this world of ours had it not been for the theorists, most persons will be inclined to the belief that an ounce of practice is worth a pound of theory in most of the activities of life. Especially would this be the case with a school of journalism. There it is proposed to educate young men for newspaper careers. That they should be taught something of the fundamental theories of journalism there can be no doubt, but unless they were also taught a great deal of the practical side of newspaper work no careers would be waiting for them. The average editor may admire fine theories immensely, but in practice he likes experienced men on his staff.

Surprise is frequently expressed because there are so many school children who are bad spellers, but there is a substantial reason for it. In Kansas very few of a short list of words were spelled correctly by 112 school and college students. Now these pupils are not taught the way their fathers and mothers were, says the Boston Globe. Under the old public school system there were spelling bees in the schools and the pupils took pride in excelling. Under the spelling bee system children between the ages of eight and twelve can acquire quite a large vocabulary by the practice of spelling words of several syllables. The rising generation is full of poor spellers, but it is not their fault, for little attention is paid to that accomplishment. It would be well for all teachers to put their pupils through a course of spelling every few days, and also to teach them to read aloud. Reading, writing and spelling should go hand in hand. Those lacking these accomplishments are not far removed from the illiterate class.

A Dutch prisoner, who was taking walking exercise in the courtyard of the Conciergerie Prison at Paris, suddenly made a running jump at the wall, which is 14 feet high and topped with iron spikes, mounted it like a cat, to the amazement of the jailers, jumped down on the other side, climbed 20 feet up a wire ladder, dropped by accomplices from an open window, and got away. He must be a real flying Dutchman.

Brooklyn has a magisterial Solomon who has decided that when a couple have a family of seven children the husband is bound to take care of them one day in the week and give his wife a chance to go out and enjoy herself. Thus is another revolutionary movement sustained.

Girls in a Massachusetts college have rejected the cap and gown as graduation garb in favor of the white dress, on the ground that the latter is more becoming. This will be another proof to the skeptical that higher education for women is a rank failure.

A physician remarks of a prominent invalid that his days are numbered, though nobody can tell how many remain. That might be also said with perfect truth of the healthiest man in the land.

A Pittsburgh preacher has found, so he says, that every man has the germ of an angel in him. The trouble seems to be that in some men there are no chances for the germs to develop.

A recent law in New York which punishes a man for trying to obey it is incomplete. It should prescribe something humorous, like boiling oil, for the penalty.

STORIES OF CAMP AND WAR

STORIES OF "FIGHTING BOB"

Interesting Tales of Famous Characters While on Land and at Sea—Pistol Saves Legs.

"Fighting Bob" Evans was sent to Valparaiso, Chile, in 1891, with the little cruiser Yorktown to protect American interests. He encountered hostility from the start. There had been an insurrection and certain political refugees found asylum on the Yorktown. The Chilean government demanded their surrender and Evans refused to give them up. What happened was told afterward by Evans in an interview.

The commanding officer at Valparaíso of the Chilean forces requested the admiral commanding one of the European squadrons on that station to say to me that unless these refugees were surrendered they would follow my ship to sea with three cruisers and an ironclad nearly four times her size and as soon as we got outside the marine league they would beave to and demand the surrender of the fugitives.

"I told the admiral I would not surrender the men. He informed me if the three big Chilean ships attacked me my little Yorktown would not last thirty minutes. In reply I requested the admiral to say to the officer commanding the Chilean squadron that while my little ship might not last more than thirty minutes, she will make a lot of trouble while she is afloat. I steamed out of Valparaiso bay the next noon with all my refugees on board and no ship of the Chilean squadron followed me."

The Yorktown was made the target for Chilean torpedo practice and Evans himself was nearly mobbed when he went ashore. He cleared his ship for action and notified the authorities that if they didn't protect him he would protect himself. They protected him.

How Evans gained the sobriquet of "Fighting Bob" is a mooted question.

Evans Whipped Out a Revolver.

One writer has dug up a story of his Annapolis days, which credits him with having gained the nickname then.

According to this version, when the youth entered the academy he took with him a framed copy of the Lord's prayer, a gift of his mother, who told him to hang it over his bed. Rules forbade decorations in the rooms. Evans calmly ignored the rules. An inspector told him to take down the prayer. Evans promptly swore he would smash the face of the first man who touched it. The inspector referred the matter to the commandant, who took it up with the secretary of the navy. Evans wrote home about it. It got in the papers. An indignation meeting was held in the town. A special order allowing the prayer to remain was the result. And it was "Fighting Bob" after that.

Evans, in the Civil war, led a charge of marines on Fort Fisher. He was wounded in both legs and left dying on the beach within range of the Confederate guns. He asked a companion, hiding behind a sand dune, to drag him to safety. The companion declined to risk his life. Evans whipped out a revolver. The marine took the lesser of the risks.

Next day the doctor decided to amputate his legs. Evans again brought the revolver into play and the surgeon changed his mind.

What Evans told the surgeon is declared to have been a classic in its line.

He concluded by saying:

"These are my legs and by the great horn spoon, I'm going to keep them." He did.

Fixing It.

"Oh, dear, do you have to go to war? Maybe the 'enemy' will kill you," said a tearful sweetheart at parting.

"I'll fix that, love; I'll be the enemy."

Hospitality.

An officer who had been exchanged from Libby was jokingly asked if he met with much hospitality at Richmond:

"Oh, yes," he replied; "I was in the hospital most of the time."

American Manners.

Frederick Townsend Martin, at a dinner in New York, criticized American manners wittily.

"Kipling," he said, "declares truly that a gentleman has manner, while a would-be gentleman has manners. We should remember that. We lay too much stress on such details as taking off our hats when we go up in the elevator with a scrubwoman.

"In fact, in everything, we seem to search too uneasily for the correct, the modish, course. A society editor told me the other day that he had just got a letter from a young woman that ran:

"Dear Editor—Please state who should keep up the instalments on the ring when the engagement is broken off."

We hope this great medicine will yet be sold in every drug store in Porto Rico." For throat and lung troubles it has no equal. A trial will convince you of its merit. 50 cents and $1.00. IMPEACHMENT TALK IS HEARD

The Case Against Judge Archbald Is Being Pushed.

Senate Committee Is Active

Charges That the Head of the Commerce Court Used His High Office as a Means of Putting Money in His Purse Is to Be Thoroughly Investigated by a Committee of the Senate, Which Has Subpoenaed Witnesses.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—That officials of the administration regard with the greatest seriousness the proceedings that have been begun by the house judiciary committee in the case of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the United States commerce court, there now is no attempt to conceal.

The house committee on judiciary, which has been authorized to determine whether the charges against Judge Archbald warrant impeachment proceedings, has indicated its intention of undertaking the inquiry without delay. In fact, subpoenas already have been issued for all the witnesses who may be able to throw light on the reported sale by the Erie railroad to Edward J. Williams of Scranton, Pa., and Judge Archbald, of culm banks in Pennsylvania. It is understood that George F. Brownell, vice president of the Erie railroad, will be subpoenaed if the papers have not already been served upon him, and that W. P. Bowland, president of the Marion Coal company of Scranton, who originally made the charges against Judge Archbald and others from the Pennsylvania city will be called as witness.

Williams has been quoted as saying that he had been unable to purchase the Erie railroad interest in these culm banks until after he had taken Judge Archbald in as an equal partner and Judge Archbald had had a talk with Vice President Brownell. According to Williams the Erie then agreed to sell its share in the culm banks for $3,500. Other interests in the culm banks were purchased by Williams, who is quoted as saying that he and Judge Archbald were to have made a profit of about $30,000 through the sale of the entire culm banks to the Lackawanna & Wyoming Valley Co.

The report which Attorney General Wickes had made in the case at the request of President Taft does not, it is understood, contain any conclusions. If the full committee decides that the evidence warrants impeachment proceedings, Chairman Clayton of the judiciary committee will be instructed to arise on his honor as a member of the house and declare that charges have been preferred which warrant action by the house. The charges against Judge Archbald would then be embodied in a resolution of the highest privilege which would have to be passed by a two-thirds vote of the house. If the resolution were passed seven managers would be appointed by the house to prosecute the case before the United States senate, which sits as a court. Judge Archbald would be entitled to be represented by counsel before the senate. The practice in impeachment proceedings has been to have the trial by the senate with the least possible delay. Judge Archbald's friends are confident that he will be able to clear himself of any charges that have been made against him, and they are extremely hopeful that the house committee on judiciary will not find it necessary to go to the length of recommending impeachment proceedings.

ONLY ONE KILLED

MANY LIVES IN GRAVEST PERIL

Crumbling Levees Threaten to Engulf Whole Communities.

SITUATION IS GROWING WORSE

New Orleans Now Is in Danger Zone and Frantic Efforts Are Being Made to Strengthen the Great Dykes Which Protect the Lower Sections of That City—Conditions Up the River Arouse the Gravest Fears.

New Orleans, May 6.—To the intense anxiety felt by the people of the lower Mississippi valley, where the greatest flood in several decades is sweeping down, two disquieting features have been added. One was a hard rain which fell all along the district in which the weakened levees from Natchez, Miss., to the gulf are located. The other was a cold and dispassionate statement by army engineers in charge of the levee work that as matters stand at present a break at any one of a dozen points undoubtedly will be accompanied by heavy loss of life, and that it seems impossible to get enough laborers to hold the dykes. The critical condition not only embraces such sections as the parts of the sugar district yet unflooded, Baton Rouge, Melrose, etc., but extends to New Orleans proper. Work has been pushed on the Flood street levee, protecting the old French section, the most densely populated part of the city. Several of the city's other levees are admitted to be in precarious condition, but it was around Flood street that the big fight centered. Flood street is fifty-five blocks below Canal street, and the vicinity is the lowest part of New Orleans.

Bayou Des Glaises, Baton Rouge, Melville, Morganza and the lower city levees of New Orleans are the most seriously threatened points. Through the great Torras break the deluge now sweeps unimpeded, and there is no effort to stem it. This one crevasse alone has caused a dozen recorded deaths, and it is not known how many persons may have been trapped in the interior of the country.

Intense excitement was caused here by a bulletin announcing that the big transfer Edenborn of the Louisiana Railway and Transportation company had been caught in the swirling current near Torras and been sunk with heavy life loss. The boat went down, but it seems there were no casualties.

MAKING UP REPORT

The Smith Committee Has Finished Inquiry Into Titanic Disaster.

Washington, May 6.—The senate committee which is investigating the Titanic disaster has concluded its hearing and is in session today considering the formulation of its report. Senator Smith, the chairman, declared that the committee's report will be a comprehensive resume of the facts relating to the disaster and will also attempt to fix responsibility. Sweeping recommendations for legislation for the preserving of life at sea will probably be made.

Senator Smith is confident that congress will give speedy consideration to the proposed legislation. Senator Smith said:

"The inquiry has closed. I don't think there will be any further public hearings. The matters that I took up in New York were important and had to do directly with the mechanical sufficiency of some features of the ship. I think the record has also been cleared up with relation to the conflict in testimony concerning discipline on the Titanic."

EARLY HEARING INSISTED UPON

Marion "Wets" Eager to Have Business Resumed.

THEY WILL PUSH THEIR CASE

Petition Filed in the Grant Circuit Court Asks For a Review of the Judgment Rendered by Judge Paulus a Year Ago, Which, Fitting Into Supreme Court Decision, Has Operated to Close the Saloons.

Marion, Ind., May 6.—Marion "wets" and their attorneys, it is now said, will put forth every possible effort to advance to an immediate hearing the petition that they have filed in the circuit court to have Judge Paulus review his judgment rendered on May 15 of last year, in which he held that the duties of the county commissioners in passing on the result of an option election were wholly ministerial and that an appeal did not lie from the order of the commissioners in declaring Marion "dry."

The court also is to be asked to set aside its former judgment and to enter one that will be in conformity with the decision of the supreme court in the Kokomo case, in which the court held the duties of the commissioners were of a judicial nature and that they did not have the legal right to go behind the election returns.

Marion "wets" acknowledge that the supreme court decision invalidates the licenses under which their saloons were operated for seven months, but they stoutly maintain that the same decision gives them the right of appeal from the order of the commissioners declaring the city "dry." Some of the attorneys for the "drys" asserted they believe Judge Paulus did not commit an error in dismissing the first appeals of the "wets."

If the appeals that were remanded back to the commissioners' court by Judge Paulus are sustained by him now, attorneys for the "wets" say that the results of the option election here on Feb. 28, 1911, which show a "wet" majority of thirty-five, together with the matter of granting licenses, will be put up to the circuit court for determination. It would then be necessary to introduce evidence to prove that more than thirty-five illegal votes were cast in the election to change the apparent result and to make the city "dry."

The saloon men are hoping to get a hearing on their petition within the next month. None of the former twenty-one saloon keepers have abandoned their places, but some of them have stored their alcoholic beverages and are now running soft drink places.

STRIKE CONTINUES

Operators and Miners Fail to Reach an Agreement.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 6.—Failure to fix a basis on which negotiations of a wage contract could be opened after a joint conference lasting five days caused the Indiana bituminous coal miners and operators to adjourn sine die. This practically means the continuation of the strike in district No. 11.

Following the adjournment of the joint conference the mine workers held a session in which the members of the scale committee were given authority to arrange the future policy of the workers of district No. 11.

Immediately after adjournment of the joint conference W. D. VanHorn, president of the mine workers, counseled the miners to let the scale committee plan the future action and this course was taken by unanimous vote.

$50,000 Blaze at Ladoga.
Ladoga, Ind., May 6.—Fire destroyed the veneer mill owned by Harry E. Daugherty of this city and R. Carl Scott of Crawfordsville. The loss is estimated at $50,000, with partial insurance. The office building, with books and papers and a portion of the lumber, were saved.

State Missionary Meeting.
Muncie, Ind., May 6.—Extensive arrangements are being made for a mass missionary meeting of the women of the Christian church in Indiana, to be held at the First church here Wednesday and Thursday. Every church in the state is expected to send at least two delegates.

DE PAUW PRESIDENT GIVEN AN OVATION

Dr. McConnell Receives Cheers of Assembled Methodists.

Minneapolis, May 6.—Francis B. McConnell, president of DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind., was tendered an ovation upon his appearance on the platform to deliver the principal address at the anniversary of the Deaconesses' association by 800 delegates attending the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. McConnell is a formidable candidate before the conference for election to the episcopacy and his enthusiastic reception is taken by his friends to indicate that many delegates may support him May 13 in the first balloting for the election of probably ten bishops of the church.

Former Governor J. Frank Hanly, who was elected to head the general standing committee on temperance, is managing the campaign of the Rev. Dr. Joshua Stansfield of Indianapolis, who is said to have good chances for the episcopacy if Indiana gets two bishops. Dr. Stansfield presided over the session in which fraternal delegations from the British Isles and Canadian Methodism delivered their messages.

Dr. Elbert R. Zaring, formerly pastor of the Meridian Street church in Indianapolis, is another Indiana man prominently mentioned for episcopal honors, while the names of S. J. Herben, editor of the Epworth Herald and formerly a member of the Indiana conference, and James W. Vanderve of the Illinois conference and prominent for years in Indiana Methodism, are mentioned.

The conference has been in session less than a week, but already problems which will make the session one of the most important in the history of the church have been presented for settlement. Among these are:

To remove the church ban on dancing and other amusements as contained in a paragraph of the discipline.

To adopt the diocesan system.

To reduce the number of church periodicals to four.

To establish an age limit for bishops.

To create a colored bishop.

Other questions of equal importance are to come up, but it is probable that none will be decided until after the election of bishops.

ABANDON RHODES

Turks Driven Out of Ancient Castle by Italian Warships.

Rome, May 6.—The Italian flag was hoisted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the castle which the Knights of St. John built to defend the city of Rhodes. There was some fighting before this was accomplished. The warships, according to official dispatches, bombarded the garrison's intrenchments on Saturday afternoon and the Italian troops which had landed started from the coast toward the city. They made a bayonet attack and the Turks retired within the city. The Italian troops bivouacked for the night at a point about an hour's march from the city. During the skirmishing five Italians were wounded. The Turkish casualties were severe. Newspapers say the Turkish garrison at Rhodes is in a strong position in the hills at a height of 2,000 feet, at a point six or seven miles to the southwest of the city. There was fighting all day Sunday, but details have not been received.

Strikers' Places Filled.
Chicago, May 6.—The newspapers in Chicago, which have been printed in condensed form for three days following a strike of union pressmen, wagon drivers and stereotypers, came out with sixteen pages on all editions today, and each publication will probably resume the normal number of pages on Tuesday or Wednesday. The places of practically all of the strikers in the press and stereotyping rooms have been filled, many recruits having arrived, eager to accept jobs.

THE BOYS' WEEK.

The series of meetings held last week in Seymour proved a valuable addition to the moral forces of our good city. Mr. A. W. Conner who, with his helpers, had charge of the meetings under the auspices of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, proved himself a strong and capable leader of boys as well as men. His teachings were always clear and unmistakable. The great emphasis was laid on the need of closer friendship between the boy and his father. No man who heard the evening and Sunday addresses could do other than feel a stronger interest in his own boys and in the boys of our city. No boy who took the princely knight studies and the dungeon experience could come out other than with a stronger desire and determination to make the most of his life by living a clean, upright life.

It is impossible to estimate the good done in the series of meetings. It is impossible to gather the assets together and make an inventory of them. The good is in the inner life of the men and boys and the influences set to work during the week will continue to produce good results in our city for years to come.

Every influence that exalts, as Mr. Conner constantly did, the home, the school, the church, the state, and urges unyielding opposition to the wrong, is a good thing for any city. The Men and Religion Forward Movement is to be congratulated on securing so helpful a series of meetings to close their work in Seymour.

That the crops have much to do with the prosperity of the country is shown by the following paragraph taken from the weekly letter of Henry Clews, who is regarded as authority upon the financial situation in the country:

The one essential thing to continued prosperity in the United States is a good harvest. Our agricultural output is totally inadequate to meet the demands of a rapid growth in population. This has vastly more to do with the increased cost of living than any augmentation in the gold supply. Our farmers should get busy and increase their output.

Mr. Clews suggests in the above that the farmers should increase their output and as most of the farming lands are occupied, it means farming should be conducted along more scientific lines.

It has been demonstrated that larger crops and consequently increased proportionate returns can be secured from the same amount of land if farming is conducted in a scientific manner. The state of Indiana has taken this question up and has established experimental stations to assist the farmers along this line and every progressive land owner is giving more attention to the question of scientific farming than ever before. During the next decade practical farming will become a scientific as well as a business proposition, and the farmer who realizes this first will receive the greatest returns.

The report says: Landscape gardening is becoming an important factor in the sale of real estate for residence purposes. A well-kept lawn and the artistic arrangement of flower gardens and a neat driveway are bound, it is said, to make a lasting impression on a prospective purchaser.

It is related that the interior of a home may cost thousands of dollars, but attractively planned grounds with lawn, trees, shrubbery and vines appeal to all men's love of nature and the things that are beautiful.

In the planning and construction of many of the finer homes the work of developing artistic grounds often is given into the hands of a landscape architect, who has made a study of this particular class of art and consequently is capable of bringing out more fully every beautiful nook and corner, as well as covering from view any unattractive spots that might exist.

It is said that the general impression prevails that landscape gardening consists only of laying out formal gardens, pergolas, hedges, beds of ornamental plants, fountains, vases, artificial lakes and sun dials, but to get the correct and more artistic effect it is found in many instances desirable to let an artist do this work.

Real estate men of experience assert that there can be no better investment by the man who has a home than possibly some time he might desire to sell than to expend some money on the beautification of his lawn. This is well demonstrated in the steps taken by some large real estate holders who place subdivisions upon the market. It is realized that the proper treatment of the grounds will greatly enhance the value of the property and attention is invariably given to this particular feature.

Even with the fight between the republican presidential candidates the democrats will have to get "an Ismay" on them to make any showing in the November election.

fact is proving a most valuable advertisement for Seymour and its business houses. Nearly every day the remark is heard by visitors from neighboring towns that the prices in all departments are lower than in their own town and that they can save money by paying their fare to Seymour and making their purchases from the local dealers. The merchants have found the advertising columns to be most valuable in telling the people what they have for sale and that the right kind of goods can be bought at the right prices.

Seymour has always been a good business center and with a concerted effort by all the merchants and business men the city will continue to grow as a business town and will receive a larger amount of outside business each year.

ATTRACTIVE LAWNS

Are Factor in Real Estate Sales and Enhance Value of Property.

More attention has been given to beautifying the lawns in this city this spring than ever before and as a result the grounds surrounding many of the homes will be very attractive. Aside from adding to the beauty of the homes such work enhances the value of the property according to a recent bulletin issued by realty men.

The report says: Landscape gardening is becoming an important factor in the sale of real estate for residence purposes. A well-kept lawn and the artistic arrangement of flower gardens and a neat driveway are bound, it is said, to make a lasting impression on a prospective purchaser.

Volley Ball as a Rural-School Game

Volley ball is well adopted to the country and is often the only team game that can be played at the country school. In a one-room rural school there will not often be ten girls or ten boys old enough to play basketball, and there almost certainly will not be eighteen boys old enough to play baseball. In volleyball the girls may play against or with the boys, so as to make up the number, or a very good game may be had with only two or three players on a side. It may be said that it is not best for the girls and boys to play together. Certainly the practice in the city schools and in the public playgrounds is to give the girls a play space that is separate from that of the boys. It is not a good thing for girls and boys to loaf about together, but there are no moral dangers that result from vigorous play together. There are few things that will do more to establish a healthy relationship between the sexes than such games as this, in which they may be almost equally successful.—From "New Games for the People," by Henry S. Curtis, in the American Review of Reviews for May.

Theory and Experiment.

Theory and experiment must go hand in hand, and much depends on one as much as on the other, not merely on its accuracy but also upon its nature. Hundreds of experiments may be made, which, however, notwithstanding their refinement and accuracy, contribute little to the march of human progress in the right direction; they may of course in ages count for much, but the chief thing is that the experiment should be of the right kind, and it is often desirable that as much time if not even more time, should be spent in deciding upon the right thing to be done than in doing that thing itself.

One bad theory is often worse than ten bad experiments, because even if these are properly carried out, they may yet, if based upon false notions add little or nothing, if not to the store at least to the advancement of knowledge; and count almost as little as the one bad experiment whether based upon theory or not.

CHAPTER XL.

A Hero in Spite of Himself.
Passion sent Mallory into the unequal fight with two armed and desperate outlaws. But reason had planned the way. He had been studying the robber all the time, as if the villain were a war-map, studying his gestures, his way of turning, and how he held the revolver. He had noted that the man, as he frisked the passengers, did not keep his finger on the trigger, but on the guard.

Mallorie's little battle threw the desperado off his balance a trifle; as he recovered, Mallory struck him, and swept him over against the back of a seat. At the same instant, Mallory's right hand went like lightning to the trigger guard, and gripped the fingers in a vise of steel, while he drove the man's elbow back against his side. Mallory's left hand meanwhile flung around his enemy's neck, and gave him a spinning fall that sent his left hand out for balance. It fell across the back of the seat, and Mallory pinioned it with elbow and knee before it could escape.

All in the same crowded moment, his left knuckles jolted the man's chin in the air, and so bewildered him that his muscles relaxed enough for Mallory's right fingers to squirm their way to the trigger, and aim the gun at the other robber, and finally to get entire control of it.

The thing had happened in such a fast that the second outlaw could hardly believe his eyes. The shriek of the astounded passengers, and the grant of Mallory's prisoner, as he crashed backward, woke him to the need for action. He caught his other gun from its holster, and made for a double volley, but there was nothing to aim at. Mallory was crouched in the seat, and almost perfectly covered by a human shield.

Still, from force of habit and fool-hardy pluck, Bill aimed at Mallory's right eyebrow, just abaft Jake's right ear, and shouted his old motto:

"Hands up! you!"
"Hands up yourself!" answered Mallory, and his victim, shuddering at the fierce look in his comrade's eyes, gasped: "For God's sake, don't shoot, Bill!"

Even then the fellow stood his ground, and debated the issue, till Mallory threw such ringing determination into one last: "Hands up, or by God, I'll fire!" that he caved in, lifted his fingers from the triggers, turned the guns up, and slowly raised both hands above his head.

A profound "Ah!" of relief sounded through the car, and Mallory, still keeping his eye on Bill, got down cautiously from the seat. The moment he released Jake's left hand, it darted to the holster where his second gun was waiting. But before he could clutch the butt of it, Mallory jabbed the muzzle of his own revolver in the man's back, and growled: "Put 'em up!" And the robber's left hand joined the right in air, while Mallory's left hand lifted the revolver.

Mallory stood for a moment, breathing hard and a little incredulous at his own swift, sweet triumph. Then he made an effort to speak as if this sort of thing were quite common with him, as if he overpowered a pair of outlaws every morning before breakfast, but his voice cracked as he said, in a drawing-room tone:

"Dr. Temple, would you mind regarding that man of those guns?"

Dr. Temple was so set up by this destruction that he answered: "Not by me."

"Walter!" Mrs. Temple checked him, before he could utter the beautiful word, and Dr. Temple looked at her almost reproachfully, as he sighed: "Golly, I should like to swear just once more."

Then he reached up and disarmed the man who had taken his wallet and his wife's keepsakes.

American children breathe in this desperado romance with their earliest traditions, and Dr. Temple felt all his boyhood zest surge back with a boy's tremendous rapture in a deed of derring-do. And now nothing could check his swagger, as he said to Mallory:

"What shall we do with these gam-med sinners?"

He felt like apologizing for the clerical relapse into a pulpitism, but Mallory answered briskly: "We'd better take them into the smoking room. They scare the ladies. But first, will the conductor take those bags and distribute the contents to their rightful owners?"

The conductor was proud to act as lieutenant to this lieutenant, and he quickly relieved the robbers of their baggage.

Mallory smiled. "Don't give anybody my things," and then he jabbed his robber with one of the revolvers, and commanded: "Forward, march!"

The little triumphal procession moved off, with Bill in the lead, followed by Dr. Temple, looking like a field battery, followed by Jake, followed by Mallory, followed by the porter and as many of the other passengers as could crowd into the smoking room.

The rest went after those opulent feed-bags.

CHAPTER XLI.

Clickety-Clickety-Clickety.

Marjorie, as the supposed wife of the rescuing angel, was permitted first search, and the first thing she hunted for was a certain gold bracelet that was none of hers. She found it and seized it with a prayer of thanks, and concealed it among her own things.

Mrs. Temple gave her a guilty start, by speaking across a barrier:

"Mrs. Mallory, your husband is the bravest man on earth."

"Oh, I know he is," Marjorie beamed, and added with a spasm of conscience: "but he isn't my husband!"

Mrs. Temple gasped in horror, but Marjorie dragged her close, and poured out the whole story, while the other passengers recovered their properties with as much joy as if they were all new gifts found on a bush.

Meanwhile, under Mallory's guidance, the porter fastened the outlaws together back to back with the straps of their own feed-bags. The porter was rejoicing that his harvest of tips was not blighted after all.

Mallory completed his bliss, by giving him Dr. Temple's brace of guns and establishing him as jailer, with a warning: "Now, porter, don't take your eye off 'em."

"Lordy, I won't bat an eyelid." "If either of these lads coughs, put a hole through both of 'em."

The porter chuckled: "My fingers is just aitchin' for them lovin' triggers."

Mallory pocketed two of the captured revolvers, lest a need might arise suddenly again. As he hurried down the aisle, he was received with cheers. The passengers gave him an ovation, but he only smiled timidly, and made haste to Marjorie's side.

She regarded him with such idolatry that he almost regretted his deed. But this mood soon passed in her excitement, and in a moment she was surreptitiously showing him the bracelet. He became an accessory after the fact, and shared her guilt, for when she groaned with a sudden droop: "She'll get it back!" he grimly answered, "Oh, no she won't!" hoisted the window, and flung the bracelet into a little pool by the side of the track, with a farewell: "Good-bye, trouble!"

As he drew his head in, a side glance showed him that up near the engine a third train-robbber held the miserably weary train crew in line.

He found the conductor just about to pull the bell-rope, to proceed. The conductor had forgotten all about the rest of the staff. Mallory took him aside, and told him the situation, then turned to Marjorie, said: "Excuse me a minute," and hurried forward. The conductor followed Mallory through the train into the baggage coach.

The first news the third outlaw had of the counter-revolution occurring in the sleeping car was a mysterious bullet that flicked the dust near his heel, and a sonorous shout of "Hands up!" As he whirled in amaze, he saw two revolvers aimed point blank at him from behind a trunk. He hoisted his guns without parley, and the train crew trussed him up in short order.

Mallory ran back to Marjorie, and the conductor followed more slowly, reassuring the passengers in the other cars, and making certain that the train was ready to move on its way.

Mallory went straight to Dr. Temple, with a burning demand:

"You dear old fraud, will you marry me?"

Dr. Temple laughed and nodded. Marjorie and Mrs. Temple had been telling him the story of the prolonged elopement, and he was eager to atone for his own deception, by putting an end to their misery.

"Just wait one moment," he said, and as a final proof of affection, he unbuttoned his collar and put it on backwards. Mrs. Temple brought out the discarded bib, and he donned it meekly. The transformation explained many mystery the old man had enmeshed himself in.

Even at he made ready for the ceremony, the conductor appeared, looked him over, grinned, and reached for the bell-cord, with a cheerful: "All aboard!"

Mallory had a sort of superstitious dread, not entirely unfounded on experience, that if the train got underway again, it would run into some new obstacle to his marriage. He turned to the conductor:

"Say, old man, just hold the train till after my wedding, won't you?"

It was not much to ask in return for his services, but the conductor was tired of being second in command. He growled:

"Not a minute. We're way behind time."

"You might wait till I'm married," Mallory pleaded.

"Not on your life!" the conductor answered, and he pulled the bell-rope twice; in the distance, the whistle answered twice.

Mallory's temper flared again. He cried: "This train doesn't go another step till I'm married!" He reached up and pulled the bell-rope once; in the distance the whistle sounded once.

This was high treason, and the conductor advanced on him threateningly, as he seized the cord once more.

"Oh, no, you won't," said Mallory, as he whisked a revolver from his right pocket and jammed it into the conductor's watch-pocket. The conductor came to attention.

Then Mallory, standing with his right hand on military duty, put out his left hand, and gave the word: "Now, parson."

He smiled still more as he heard Kathleen's voice wailing: "But I can't find my bracelet. Where's my bracelet?"

"Silence! Silence!" Dr. Temple commanded, and then: "Join hands, my children."

Marjorie shifted Snoozleums to her left arm, put her right hand into Mallory's, and Dr. Temple, standing between them, began to drone the ritual.

When the old clergyman had done his work, the young husband-at-last graciously rescinded military law, recalled the artillery from the conductor's very midst, and remembering Manila, smiled:

"You may fire when ready, conductor."

The conductor's rage had cooled, and he slapped the bridegroom on the back with one hand, as he pulled the cord with the other. The train began to creak and tug and shift. The ding-dong of the bell floated murmurously back as from a lofty steeple, and the clickety-click, click-clickety-click quickened and softened into a pleasant gossip, as the speed grew, and the way was so smooth for the wheels that they seemed to be spinning on rails of velvet.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

During the last few years, conditions in all lines of business, even professional life, have changed so completely that every man is waking up to the fact that in order to win success he must specialize and learn to do some one thing and do it well.

So it is with any article that is sold to the people. It must have genuine merit or no amount of advertising will maintain the demand for the article.

For many years we have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. From the very beginning the proprietors had so much confidence in it that they invited everyone to test it, free of cost, before purchasing. It is a physician's prescription.

They have on file thousands of letters received from former sufferers who are now enjoying good health as a result of its use.

However, if you wish first to try a sample bottle, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper. They will gladly forward you a sample bottle by mail, absolutely free.

A Wonderfully Prophetic Story

THE WRECK OF THE TITAN

by MORGAN ROBERTSON

Read How a Famous Author Described, Over A Decade Ago, How the

S. S. Titanic Would Sink And Drown Hundreds Of Souls

Published no less than fourteen years ago, this story is a wonderful forecast of what was to happen, and what did happen, to the steamship Titanic, off the Banks of Newfoundland, when more than 1,500 lives were lost.

Read the graphic story of the loss of the Titan, empress of the seas as described by Robertson in 1898, and you will see and really live through the eventful night when the palatial Titan sank into an iceberg and sank two miles to ocean bottom.

In the fiction story, the Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, and indestructible, is wrecked by an iceberg along the Northern Lane Route of the Atlantic, and there are not sufficient lifeboats and rafts to take off the wrecked passengers and the greater part of 2,000 souls aboard the Titan are lost. The wreck occurs in about the same place that the Titanic sank.

First installment of the Wreck of the Titan will be published in the REPUBLICAN next Tuesday evening.

Registration Law.

The registration law is attracting considerable attention this year and is published below in a condensed form.

A voter is a male citizen who will be 21 years of age or over on day of election who is native born or naturalized, and has legal residence in his precinct, county and state. The election this year occurs on Tuesday, Nov. 5th, so a person born on Nov. 6th 21 years previous is a legal voter.

No man can vote without having previously registered.

A voter must be present in person to register.

A voter registers but once in precinct where he votes.

If a voter should change voting places, state, county, township or precinct he must register in one to which he moves and if previously registered, bring a certificate of such previous registry from County Auditor under signature and seal.

The Registration board will hold three sessions each year (in which elections occur) in each precinct in May, September and October. The first registration this year will be on Thursday, May 9th, and may last for three days if found necessary to accommodate the voters. The other two will be on Friday, September 6th, and Monday, October 7th, for only one day each. The hours for registering are 5 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m. on registration days.

Registration blanks will be left at different places in each precinct that they may be obtained previous to day of registrations. A supply will also be on hands at the place of registration on days for registering.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

S. S. S. heals Sores and Ulcers in the very simplest way. It just goes right down into the blood and removes the cause, and the place is bound to heal because the impurities and morbid matters which have been the means of keeping the ulcer open are no longer absorbed from the blood. External applications of salves, lotions, plasters, etc., can never produce a cure because they do not reach the source of the trouble. At best they can only allay pain or reduce inflammation; such treatment is working on symptoms and not reaching the cause. Every nutritive corpuscle in the blood is weakened or infected, they cannot nourish the fibrous tissue around the place, but instead they constantly discharge into the flesh around the sore a quantity of impure, germ-laden matter which gradually eats into the surrounding healthy tissue and causes the ulcer to enlarge. Since impure blood is responsible for Sores and Ulcers, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a cure. S. S. S. has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity from the blood. While curing the sore or ulcer S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, healthy blood, and thus makes the cure permanent and lasting. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color. Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few day's treatment will make in your hair. This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

MAY APPEAL CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Marion Saloon Men Inclined to Renew Fight.

POLITICAL PROPHECY FROM THE OTHER SIDE

Jerry Simpson's Ghost Announces Its Views.

Topeka, Kan., May 4.—Theodore Roosevelt will be the Republican and Champ Clark the Democratic nominee for president this year, and Champ Clark will be elected. This is the prophecy made by Mrs. Jerry Simpson, widow of the former Seventh district congressman. Mrs. Simpson is a spiritualist and has had several interesting interviews with the spirit of her husband recently.

The belief is expressed that the liquor dealers may appeal the cases from the decision of the commissioners to Judge Paulus of the Grant circuit court. It was decided by Judge Paulus that the duties of the county commissioners were ministerial and he sustained a motion to dismiss the appeals. An appeal may be taken to the supreme court.

The saloon men say they can defeat the action of the county commissioners as far as evidence is concerned in their action declaring the city of Marion "dry." Lawyers representing the "wets" refuse to talk, but there is a feeling in both "wet" and "dry" camps that some further action may be taken. One phase which may work against such appeal is the probability that the case would not be remanded here for trial until the two years' limit of the city local option election expires, which will be Feb. 28, 1913.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot pouches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

FAIL TO HEED SIGNALS.

Many Persons Neglect to Follow Instructions of Railroad Watchmen.

Railroad watchmen report that many persons fail to heed the signals given at the time of passing trains and that many narrow escapes are seen because of the carelessness in neglecting to follow the instructions given by the watchmen for the protection of the street travelers. The duty of the watchmen is to prevent people from crossing the tracks when there is danger from an approaching engine or train and when the traveler is in risk of injury the watchmen so inform them.
